

R. Vandalism

Active involvement in reducing damages within the community is encouraged as this damage may cause injury, inconvenience to other community members, and reduce the amount of money available for hall improvements. Vandalism includes but is not limited to: damaging residence hall property, graffiti, placing trash in the hallway, damaging bulletin boards and other deconstructive activities not appropriate for residence hall community living. When responsible individuals cannot be identified, the entire community (room, hall, building, etc.) may be charged the cost to repair the vandalism, as per Residence Life section S.6.b.
