

ECON 1332 : Principles of Microeconomics

A study of the functioning of the market system, with emphasis on consumer and business decision-making and the various market structures. The course covers the theoretical underpinnings as well as the policy implications of the market system, resource allocation and income distribution.

Credits 3

Course ID

001855