

PSYC 3337 : Abnormal Psychology

A study of past and present conceptions of abnormality, the dynamics underlying normal and abnormal behavior and an examination of the key classification systems utilized in understanding abnormal behavior. Issues related to etiology, the nature of development and symptoms of abnormal behavior are reviewed.

Prerequisite: PSYC 1332.

Credits 3

Course ID

001622

Requisites

PSYC 3337 Prerequisite: PSYC 1332