

PSYC 4438 : Biopsychology

Reviews brain structure and function and surveys the role of the central nervous system in sensation, perception, movement, regulation of internal states, learning and memory, language, brain damage and psychological disorders. Laboratory activities focus on brain structure and function, sensation/perception simulations and other computer-based activities. Prerequisites: PSYC 3433.

Credits 4

Course ID

001652

Requisites

PSYC 4438 Prerequisites: PSYC 1332, 3433