

SOCI 1331 : Principles of Sociology

The study of people in interdependence. Identification of social groups and observation of their structures, functions, interactions and coordination. Particular emphasis on the social processes and the development of group values and attitudes.

Credits 3

Course ID

001654

Semester Offered

Fall

spring semesters